ALLIES MODIFY PROTOCOLOBJECTIONABLE FEATURES ARE STRICKEN OUT

LONDON, Dec. 8.—Andrew Bonar Law, the government spokesman, declared in the house of commons today that there was little reason to doubt that the communications proceeding between the allied and associated powers and Germany with reference to the immediate ratification of the peace treaty would have a satisfactory issue.

PARIS, Dec. 8.—The allies have consented to modify some of the terms of the protocol putting the peace treaty into effect to which Germany has made objection. The clause providing for indemnity for the destruction of the German fleet at Scapa Flow has been modified so as to refer to The Hague tribunal the question whether the delivery of the tonnage demanded will cripple Germany, it is understood. The understanding also is that the other features of the protocol most objectionable to the Germans have been eliminated. It is expected that the German plenipotentiaries will sign the protocol without much further delay.

The final paragraph in the protocol providing that even after the peace treaty has gone into effect the allies might use military measures of coercion to ensure the execution of the treaty's terms, has been eliminated entirely, as also has the clause relating to the evacuation of the Baltic provinces by German troops.

The imputation of responsibility to Germany for the sinking of the Scapa Flow fleet is left in the protocol. It was expected that note setting forth the allied position would be handed to Baron von Lersner, head of the German mission.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—Gottlieb Noske, German minister of defense, declares it will be recognized that the German government refuse to sign the protocol of the peace treaty, no matter what the consequences may be, according to the Berlin correspondent of the Daily Mail.

Noske was careful to say he was giving his personal views, but it is said his statement agreed with intentions ascribed to other members of the German cabinet.

He charged that Great Britain and France were "deliberately planning the destruction of Germany," and that these governments "by deceit and victory" were moulding public opinion in their countries preparatory to "clipping Germany beyond the crushing effects of the first treaty." He said he had "lost all confidence in the pledges of the allies."

Demands for dock and harbor material in preparation for the sinking of the interned German fleet at Scapa Flow and the provision of the protocol empowering the allies to enforce the terms of the peace treaty were ascribed by the German minister as the two straws which have broken the back of German endurance.

The fact that failure by the United States to ratify the treaty may mean larger representations from the other allies on commissions established by the protocol he said was a reason for Germany to refuse to sign the protocol.

ACTED TO AVERT WAR

MEXICO CITY, Sunday, Dec. 7.—J. Salter Hansen, who furnished the bail upon which W. O. Jenkins, the American commercial agent at Puebla, was released, declared tonight that he had acted on his own initiative.

He issued this statement:

"I wish to say the following:

"On Tuesday morning, last, on account of certain facts that came to my attention, which I am in no position to disclose, I suddenly realized that war between the United States and Mexico was inevitable unless one of the two governments was ready to sacrifice its honor, prestige and dignity by receding from the dangerous position into which it was forced. I, therefore, took all the steps necessary to effect the immediate release on bail of W. O. Jenkins and relieve the tension. I did so spontaneously and of my own initiative and I am ready and willing to take upon myself the full responsibility or credit, according to the point of view.

"It was a source of infinite pleasure to me to hear that the news of the release of Jenkins cheered our president, and I ardently hope that his complete recovery is near."

INVESTIGATOR JUMPS
FROM THIRD FLOOR

BUDAPEST, Sunday, Dec. 7.—M. Kovacs, the judge who has been investigating the facts concerning the murder of Count Tisza, the former Hungarian premier, committed suicide today by jumping from the third floor window of the court house. Kovacs had been accused by the extreme Socialists of suppressing evidence to show that former Premier Friedrich had knowledge that the murder of Count Tisza was intended.

THE YOUNG LADY ACROSS THE WAY

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—Hundreds of passenger trains were withdrawn from service on the railroads of the country today, mostly in the midwest, south and southwest, in accordance with instructions issued last week by the railroad administration and hundreds of other trains had been ordered annulled on next Wednesday, chiefly in the east, as a result of the coal miners' strike.

In New England alone orders were sent canceling nearly 300 trains on Wednesday. Dozens are to be discontinued in Pennsylvania and even Canadian railroads have felt the coal shortage to such an extent that 35 additional passenger trains were taken off, including the crack transcontinental limited of the Canadian Pacific.

The reduction of passenger service in the United States since the strike began November 1, amounts to approximately one-third of the total, and in Canada a saving of 324,000 train miles per month has been effected.

Many hundred thousand workers were idle today on account of closing of non-essential industries from which coal has been withheld by regional committees and the curtailment of business hours in many cities.

Ah! Adventurer
To Fly To U. S.

FLUME, Sunday, Dec. 7.—Captain Gabriele D'Annunzio plans to fly to the United States after the Flume situation has been adjusted, he told the Associated Press today.

"BIG FOUR" WILL MEET
PARIS, Dec. 8.—The supreme council this morning took up the unfinished business of the peace conference in an effort to dispose of the more urgent questions. Its purpose also was to decide upon the reference of the other pending questions to the proper quarters for decision after the "big four" becomes the "big four" as it is stated the supreme council, with the four principal allied powers represented will continue to meet after the American delegates leave tomorrow.

As far as the Americans are concerned, the supreme council will cease to exist after the signing of the Hungarian peace treaty. It is as yet not determined who will sign that document for the United States, although in all probability it will be Ambassador Wallace. Most of the unfinished business will thereafter be referred to the various governments and settled through the regular diplomatic channels.

Among the matters to be thus referred will be the administration of western Thrace, although the ultimate fate of that province may be decided by the supreme council of four.

The reparations' commission will inherit a number of questions including the distribution of the German merchant shipping. The revision of the treaty between Belgium and Holland and the Adriatic and Baltic questions probably will be put in the class of those to be referred to the governments.

The question of the continuation of the inter-allied war council is still undecided. The Americans are understood to be unfavorable to its continuation and the French and the British are said to be not yet in complete accord as to the details under which the organization is to be continued.

The question of negotiations with Turkey is another one as yet undetermined. Great Britain still desires to transfer the negotiations to London but France has not yet given her consent.

Among other questions remaining to be disposed of is the disposition of the German shipping that was left in the hands of Brazil and Uruguay, the former having been operated by the French and the latter by the Americans. It is understood the American delegates favor the allotment of this tonnage to Brazil and Uruguay, respectively.

In agreeing Saturday to urge upon the miners' representatives acceptance of the president's proposals, John L. Lewis, acting president of the mine workers, was said to have frankly informed Attorney General Palmer of the difficulties he is having in view of the feeling created among the miners by general attitude of the government.

Lewis was said to have expressed willingness to attempt to change this feeling if given assistance from responsible government officials in dealing with men.

Lewis and William Green, secretary of the miners' union at Indianapolis tomorrow will lay the president's proposals before the executive scale committee of the workers.

There were persistent reports today that the president's proposal was that the miners accept for the present the 15 percent wage advance proposed by Postmaster General Garfield and that the final adjustment of wages and working conditions be left to a commission to be appointed by the president.

Some assurances are said to have been given as to the personnel of the commission, the method of obtaining facts which will be put before it and other points which are reported to have induced the miners to consider their prospects under it more favorable than they otherwise would be.

The Senate labor committee deferred action on the resolution calling for congressional investigation of the coal strike as it did not desire to interfere in negotiations between the government and miners which promise to end their strike. Chairman Kenyon said.

NO DECISION ON WAR
TIME PROHIBITION

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 8.—No decision on the constitutionality of the war time prohibition and the Volstead enforcement act was rendered today by the supreme court and there was no indication when a decision would be handed down.

Arguments on the constitutionality of the acts were advanced by the court at the request of the government and decision had been expected generally when the court reconvened today after a recess of two weeks. As Monday is the regular opinion day of the court, a decision is not to be expected before next Monday, if then.

The cases on which the constitutionality of the war time act was attacked, were from Kentucky and New York, while that on which the validity of the enforcement act was contested reached the supreme court from New York.

Arguments in appeals from Baltimore and New Orleans involving the right to manufacture beer containing 2.75 percent alcohol are to be heard by the court this week.

PEACE-TIME ARMY OF 300,000 IS FAVERED

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 8.—A peace time regular army of 300,000 men and 15,000 officers was decided on today by the house military sub-committee, headed by Representative Anthony, Republican, Kansas, framing the army reorganization bill. The number of combat troops was fixed at 250,000.

HOPE FOR SETTLEMENT OF STRIKE TOMORROW

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—Hope for the settlement tomorrow afternoon of the controversy between the miners, the operators and the government was expected in a formal statement issued today at the White House.

The statement follows:

"It is hoped that there will be a settlement on Tuesday afternoon of the controversy between the miners, the operators and the government through the acceptance by the miners of the plan for a definite settlement proposed by the president, which proposal was submitted to Acting Postmaster General Lewis of the miners, by Attorney General Palmer Saturday night."

The utmost secrecy still surrounded the president's proposal and Secretary Tumulty and other officials refused to supplement the White House statement. It was learned, however, that the proposal made to the miners was from the president himself and was in the far most a memorandum written by him.

In agreeing Saturday to urge upon the miners' representatives acceptance of the president's proposals, John L. Lewis, acting president of the mine workers, was said to have frankly informed Attorney General Palmer of the difficulties he is having in view of the feeling created among the miners by general attitude of the government.

INITIATIVE IN FOREIGN RELATIONS BELONGS TO HIM, STATES WILSON

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 8.—President Wilson would be "gravely concerned to see any such resolution pass the congress," he wrote Senator Fall today in referring to the Fall resolution requesting the president to sever diplomatic relations with the Carranza government.

"It would constitute a reversal of our constitutional practice which might lead to very grave confusion in regard to the guidance of our foreign affairs," he wrote.

The president expressed confidence that he had the support of every competent constitutional authority in the statement that the direction of the government's foreign affairs was assigned by the constitution to the chief executive and to him alone.

The president's letter to Senator Fall follows:

"Thank you very much for your kind promptness in complying with my request that you send me a copy of the memorandum report of the sub-committee on Mexican affairs of the committee on foreign affairs. I shall examine it with the greatest interest and care. What you told me of the investigation, on Friday, last, prepares me to find in it matter of the greatest importance."

"You ask an indication of my desire with regard to the pending resolution, to which you and Senator Hitchcock called my attention on Friday, and I am glad to reply with the utmost frankness, that I should be gravely concerned to see any such resolution pass the congress. It would constitute a reversal of our constitutional practice which might lead to very grave confusion in regard to the guidance of our foreign affairs. I am confident that I am supported by every competent constitutional authority in the statement that the initiative in directing the relations of our government with foreign governments is assigned by the constitution to the executive and to the executive only. Only one of the two houses of congress is associated with the president by the constitution in an advisory capacity and the advice of the senate is provided for only when sought by the executive in regard to explicit agreements with foreign governments and the appointment of the diplomatic representatives who are to speak for this government at foreign capitals. The only safe course I can confidently take is to adhere to the prescribed method of the constitution. We might go very far afield if we departed from it."

"I am very much obliged to you for having given me the opportunity to express this opinion."

"Very truly yours,"

"WOODROW WILSON."

"Hon. Albert B. Fall."

United States Senate."

When the president's letter was received, Senator Lodge, chairman of the foreign relations committee, called Senator Fall and Senator Branford, Republican, Connecticut, of the committee, into conference and in a few minutes announced that no further action on the Mexican situation would be taken by the committee.

"We wanted to help," Senator Lodge said.

"But now the entire Mexican situation goes to the president. The responsibility is upon his shoulders. Let it rest there."

It was expected Senator Fall would speak during the day the evidence upon which he based his resolution, requesting the severance of diplomatic relations.

Senator Lodge said the committee had wished to assure the president of its support but even that appeared undesirable.

"Very well," he said, "he may deal with it."

"It was what I expected," remarked Senator Hitchcock, after reading the president's letter.

this morning, from Forecaster Devoreaux, stated that the Ohio river at Portsmouth will continue to rise to-night and Tuesday, reaching a crest of about 46 or 47 feet, late Tuesday or Wednesday.

The Ohio is on another rampage, the result of heavy rains, which fell throughout the Ohio Valley Saturday and Sunday morning.

At 7 o'clock this morning the gauge showed a stage of 26.3, the river having risen 20 feet since Saturday night at 5 o'clock. Local River Observer F. B. Winter stated this morning that the Ohio was rising here at about three inches an hour. Heavy rain was reported yesterday at Pittsburgh, Parkersburg, Marietta, Huntington, Ashland and Ironton.

Creeks In County

The heavy rain Saturday caused all the creeks in Scioto county to go on a rampage.

Turkey Creek, on the West Side, was higher than it had been for years, but caused very little damage, according to Scioto County Commissioner Charles Worley, who lives on Turkey Creek.

Brush Creek and Pine Creek were also very high, as great volumes of water were poured into them. Some damage is reported along Brush Creek.

Water Again Over The Scioto Trail

The Scioto river was rising at Waverly and Piketon Sunday and Sunday evening water was again over the Prairie road connecting Piketon and Waverly. Until the river falls autoists can use the old pike following the N. & W. out of Piketon.

Families Are

Forced To Move

Barden Creek and Jessie's Run reached a flood stage at Barden, many families being forced to move early Sunday morning and considerable damage to property in the village resulted. Rocky Fork was also on a rampage and farmers living along that stream suffered heavy losses while citizens at Otway, Henley, Arion and other points suffered damage from the rising water.

The musical circles of Huntington and surrounding towns will hear the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra to-night with the famous Eugene Ysaÿe, conducting.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Denton and daughter Isabel of Fourth street left Sunday for Chicago in response to a message informing them of the death of Mrs. Denton's sister, Mrs. Bertha Bridges, who died very suddenly at her house on Saturday. Mrs. Bridges is well-known here, having made her home here several years ago. Mrs. E. E. SPENT $100 A YEAR FOR 15 YEARS

"Four bottles of Tanlac have done me more good and have brought me more genuine relief than fifteen years of medical treatment that cost me an average of $100 a year," said E. B. Hall, the well-known fruit grower, who lives near Fountain City, a suburb of Knoxville, Tenn.

"For fifteen years," continued Mr. Hall, "I suffered from a bad form of stomach trouble, which persistently refused to yield to treatment. During all that time I was denied the pleasure of eating like other people and never knew what it was to relish a square meal. I tried doctor after doctor and used all kinds of medicine recommended for dyspepsia, but they only seemed to aggravate my condition, and nothing helped me."

"As the years went by, I grew gradually worse, and for months and months my diet has been a soft boiled egg and a little milk toast. I also suffered terribly from constipation and was extremely nervous. I seldom ever slept well and had a dull, sluggish headache that made life burdensome. Finally, I began having dizzy spells."

"Most always after eating my stomach would fill up with gas, so that I could hardly breathe. My breath would get short, my pulse very weak and I became alarmed about myself."

"I finally decided to try Tanlac, as I had heard a great many people say it was a wonderful medicine for just such troubles. After the first few doses I noticed a wonderful change in my condition. My appetite began to improve, and, before I had finished the first bottle, I got so I could eat anything. Now I am hungry all the time. I also sleep well and wake up in the mornings feeling refreshed and ready for work. The smothering spells and nervousness no longer bother me. Furthermore, I have gained eight pounds in weight, which is certainly unusual for a man of my age, 68 years. My complete restoration to health is the talk of the neighborhood, and it seems like everyone out our way is taking Tanlac."

"No one knows how to appreciate good health until after they have lost it, and I want to say to you that life is again worth living and that I owe it all to Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Portsmouth by Fish and Strelch Pharmacy and the leading druggist in every town.

Memories Of Departed Elks Fittingly Reverenced At Annual Lodge Of Sorrow

With solemnity and impressiveness befitting the occasion the Portsmouth Lodge B. P. O. E. Elks No. 164 reverenced the memories of their departed members at their annual lodge of sorrow Sunday afternoon.

These services are always impressive and yesterday's program was one of the best ever arranged by this lodge.

The memories of those who have passed into the Valley of the Shadow were once more made green and the tender sympathy employed to extoll their virtues left its imprint upon one of the largest audiences that ever gathered in the Elks Club.

During the past year the Grim Reaper claimed two of its active and progressive members, the late Judge J. O. Miller and James S. Pearce, Attorney Harry W. Miller, who was long associated with Judge Miller in the practice of law eulogized his memory and G. F. Turley, a life long friend of Mr. Pearce reviewed his interesting life and gave the departed his full measure of praise.

Some of the city's best musical talent was heard on the program. Cleo de Bruin was in his usual good voice and sang with sweetness and resonance "At Eventide." No Elk's memorial here is complete without Mr. De Bruin, whose voice possesses rare quality and timbre.

The gifted elocutionist, Mrs. Walter Gableman lent additional charm to the program by rendering two exquisite readings "He Giveth His Beloved Sleep" and "When Earth's Last Picture is Painted."

Mrs. H. G. Bugh and H. H. Meade contributed a beautiful duet, "O Loving Picture of Jesus," their voices blend harmoniously and they sang with ease and grace.

The Elk's choir under the direction of that capable leader and accompanist, Nelson Weedon sang "Pilgrims of the Night" and a trio from "The Holy City." The sextette showed real training and sang with refreshing sweetness.

It was composed of:

Sopranos—Mrs. H. G. Bugh, Mrs. O. J. Deltzler and Mrs. B. F. Kimble; altos—Mrs. P. E. Selby, Mrs. Charles L. Storch and Mrs. C. E. Nodder.

The Elk's choir, which was heard to a splendid advantage, was composed of:

First tenor—Edmund Kricker and Fred Klingman; second tenor: Chester A. Bigles and Karl Zoellner; first bass: Karl Kappas and Watson Goddard; second bass: Frank Adams and William H. Schwartz.

The tax rate in Portsmouth will be $1.00 for each $100 in tax valuation, of which .80 cents a hundred, the first half is now due.

Wheelersburg school district will have the highest rate, with $1.50, and Green township, the lowest, with .86. The rate in Portsmouth last year was $1.43 on each $100 tax valuation.

Memories Of Departed Elks Reverenced

The Destroyer may find that the lintels of the door have been sprinkled by the bunch of hyssop, but it is gotten that that hope is consoled for us.

It is the beautiful custom of the Elks to meet every year, indulge our affections, walk softly in the hollowed chamber that memory has so happily created, and look back with the reverence which love inspires on the features of Kears McFarlin and Newman and all the others, who, when they lived, were devout Elks and tender friends. We now sadly and tenderly hang upon the walls of that cherished chamber of ours, where, the lights and shadows show them best,

Pearce and Milner. This is a rite of friendship. It is the sublime relation upon which Elkdom is built. Emerson says of it: "But, the sweet sincerity of joy and peace which I draw from this association with my brother's soul, is the out itself whereof at picture and all thought is but the husk and shell."

In 1812 a little band of religious enthusiasts freed by the liberal thought of the reformations, and impatient with the pomp and pageantry of the older church, appeared in England. It attracted to them a young man of engaging manners and influence. His sincerity and eloquence in preaching a simple faith, free from ritualism, made many converts and really founded, at least gave to it greater influence.

The Society of Quakers. This was William Penn, a confidant of the unfortunate James II. Being invested with a province in America, he founded the great state of Pennsylvania, and it is said that in a treaty negotiated by the Quakers with their Christian neighbors, it was not ratified with an oath, and was never infirmed. He enacted laws that have never been changed.

The first of which was, now guaranteed by our Constitution, to injure no one upon a religious account.

It was from this sturdy stock that John G. Milner sprung. From these pioneer people, who subdued the wilderness and stoned the storm, he got his unquestioned honesty, indomitable will, tireless industry and great personal and moral courage.

He was conceded to be the most scholarly and learned man in this section of the state. Besides a thorough education, he had the acute and persistent habits of mind that absorbed and made a part of himself everything that he read, and his range was the entire field of literature and thought. His mind was so accurate, logical and pertinent, and was coupled with a memory so extraordinary that it was a constant source of astonishment, so that he could instantly apply his knowledge with amazing rapidity and effect. He knew all history, the events of which were arranged in his mind in perfect order and sequence, and he got from history its true lesson, not a mass of facts of the particular that of a certain war, conflict, or fall of King or State, but the source of human motive and effort, and that history repeats itself, because human nature does not change, but moves in a cycle as certain as the great orbit of Jupiter.

He was a deep and constant student of the Bible, much of which he had committed to memory. The Sermon on the Mount, and the few and simple words of our Savior, to his mind comprises the moral code, and is so plain that it needs no learned interpretation.

He was a practical man, an essential quality if one is to attain success at the Bar, but notwithstanding this, and like many practical men, he sought and enjoyed the keenest pleasure in poetry. He has read all of it that is printed in English, which is worth reading, and he knew it as intimately as his friend knows friend. By accurate knowledge of the law, and with what exactness he exercised, gave him the ability to discriminate and solve the many puzzles the law presents. The law is not vague or mysterious, but the relations of life and the possibilities of the facts of each case are so infinite that the difficulties to the practitioner is in its application. The first requisite of a lawyer is just common sense, the next industry, and the third, which is common to all walks of life, is honesty. These Judge Milner had. He gave with this fidelity to his client and respect to the Court. He was an unusual trial lawyer, being exceedingly quick, familiar with the law and the rules of evidence and a master of subtle analysis and sound logic. With these he marshalled the forces of the strength of his adversary so persistently and unerringly that a client could feel, if his cause was at all just, that his rights would be preserved. He had no patience with sham, he was not contentious and he never played to the galleries that infernal resort of small minds to gain applause. He tried his cause to the Court and to the Jury.

As a Judge he was just and upright. He would not permit merit or justice to be side-tracked by technicalities which is a bane and a reproach to the administration of justice. He could be severe to the guilty and evil minded, and he could temper justice with mercy.

In social way he was a delightful companion, and among chosen and congenial friends a constant source of life and vivacity. His wit and repartee, his quaint conceits, bits of original verse and ability to carry on a real and true conversation, now unaptly in almost forgotten art, made and endeared him to the most sincere friends.

All Strong Characters

Have Their Faults

He was human and it is human to err. All strong characters have their faults, but these are like settings in platinum, the base metal gives more brilliancy to the diamond. In this Lodge we write the faults of our brothers on the sand, and, as Emerson says, we judge men and brothers by their better moments.

Judge Milner possessed that rigid type of honesty that cannot be swerved from the rigid path of conviction. Nothing could tempt him to any other course no matter how alluring or in ridious the influence. He was altogether a true Elk, a devoted husband, an upright citizen, and his death is a distinct loss to this Lodge and to the whole community. As one of his friends has said, he always ran on high gear, even after he was stricken. His friends now realize he knew it was the end, but he approached death with the calm courage and stoicism that marked the sons of Sparta.

One of the most compelling things of life is reverence and loving remembrance of the dead. It has a sweet and wholesome influence, and is a constant restraint on the evil tendencies and the base nature. It is a lofty and commanding sentiment which the Elks cultivate as a part of their creed of Charity, Justice and Brotherly Love. "In a word," says Margaret Olinda, "when death is the sequence of life, we deliberately allow ourselves to love, altho-

Get into the red-blooded class if you are not there now. Take a few weeks' course of that splendid tonic--Pepto-Mangan and note how you improve in health and looks. Pepto-Mangan is a red-blood maker and is for sale at the drug store right near your home. It is put up in both liquid and tablet form. Take which you choose, but see that the name "Gude" is on the package. Without "Gude" it is not Pepto-Mangan.

It is the cry everywhere--"Wanted--Red-Blooded Men." The soldiers and sailors that won the war were red-blooded, two-faced fellows. In truth, it is the red-blooded man that stands the strain and wins the big successes. The world has no place for the thin-blooded, weakling. It is natural that red-blooded men and women should have more friends, and they do. They are better human beings than the thin-blooded enemies, who are likely to be "grouch" and irritable most of the time.

and ample quotation, and with the expression that a true and comprehensive understanding implies, he could interpret its meaning and reveal its beauties.

He Reveled in Shakespeare's Treasure

It was natural that one of his temperament should revel in Shakespeare, its philosophy and its wit, its exquisite poetry, and insight in human nature, exposing weakness, and exalting its strength. He laughed with Falstaff, admired the charm of Perdita and Miranda, scorned Iago, and wept with the pathetic Ophelia, as she weaved the rosemary and columbine, while the sweet bells of her mind jangled out of tune.

He had told me that he had read Hamlet more than fifty times and always found new riches in this inexhaustible store of treasures. Hamlet is indeed the darling of those who read, and, to use one of Shakespeare's own illustrations, it is the very button on the cap of all literature, and has no rival, unless it be the Twenty Third Psalm, the incomparable song of David.

I know with what rapture he visited the birth place of Shakespeare to do homage at that shrine of English letters, and with what exaltation of feeling he visited the poet's old home, the church where he lies buried, and walked of a summer evening where the low hung willows caress the quiet waters of Avon.

Judge Milner's success as a lawyer was not due to what is erroneously called genius, but to application and hard work, thorough and painstaking preparation, and the effort that smels of the lamp. He had, of course, advantages, principally hard earned attainments, and the golden gift of eloquence, but he knew that the law is a jealous mistress and its regards are only bestowed on those who literally rise with the lark and trim assiduously the midnight lamp. This he did and so gives example to all who hope to rank in the attractive field of law.

Persistent research for the law, and the concentration and thought he exercised, gave him the ability to discriminate and solve the many puzzles the law presents. The law is not vague or mysterious, but the relations of life and the possibilities of the facts of each case are so infinite that the difficulties to the practitioner is in its application. The first requisite of a lawyer is just common sense, the next industry, and the third, which is common to all walks of life, is honesty. These Judge Milner had. One of the most compelling things of life is reverence and loving remembrance of the dead. It has a sweet and wholesome influence, and is a constant restraint on the evil tendencies and the base nature. It is a lofty and commanding sentiment which the Elks cultivate as a part of their creed of Charity, Justice and Brotherly Love. "In a word," says Margaret Olinda, "when death is the sequence of life, we deliberately allow ourselves to love, altho-love, plus death equals grief, as love is two and two make four."

This Lodge is in the practice of Brotherly love in all embracing. It extends this principle to all who have ever been members. At these usual Lodges of Sorrow it formally calls the roll of its dead, and, in that way, and by words of remembrance and tribute, it is a medium by which the younger men learn to know the older ones whom they never met. In recalling with fidelity their virtues and worth their influence in this respect does not cease. A member in this way never dies, and thus the character and standing of the Lodge is the sum of the character and influence of all members whether they are living or dead.

When Pandora, the first woman of mythology, allowed the evil spirits to escape from the vase and plague our bodies with disease and death, our minds with envy spite and malice, she still saved for mankind Hope. And when our first parents transgressed, hope was not banished with them.

We have, in the past five years, felt the sting and scourge of these evil spirits and the world has all been trampled, with Hope itself, by the four horsemen, famine, pestilence, war and death, and the world still seethes with unrest, but Hope, that was saved, lasts.

At this sad hour we are depressed
we always are whether in the presence of death or in its contemplation, but the Elks believe in God, else they could not be Elks. They believe in the resurrection of the body, not only from the revealed and lairded word, but because nature in a hundred ways testifies to a future life. The withered roses are renewed with a greater fragrance, spring with its blossoms follows the death of winter, and the splendor of the sunset ushering out the dying day fades into night, but the dawn, is a new birth. Can man, created in the image of his maker, hope for less?

We feel that from the manifold revels of God, his infinite mercy and loves, and from the sweet and gentle teachings of Christ, that we can exclaim of each of our brothers, as Blaine said of Garfield: "Let us believe that in the silence of the receding world, he heard the great waves breaking on a farther shore and felt already upon his sweated brow the breath of the eternal morning."

Mr. Pearce Was

A Sterling Citizen

G. F. Turley in his eulogy on the memory of his dear friend James S.
Pearce said:

James Sterling Pearce was removed from the scene of action with sudden ness akin to a clap of thunder from a clear sky. His friends and loved ones were shocked and wholly unprepared for the blow. Many of his intimate friends were unaware of his illness.
In the short space of four days from the inception of his illness he had left us in the high tide of his massive manhood and usefulness. A host of friends and loved ones throughout the country were left to mourn his unexpected end.

Mr. Pearce was born in England, leaving there at the age of 14 with his father and took up his residence in the Dominion of Canada. He was soon associated with the Canadian Pacific railroad as an apprentice, serving in that capacity for a term of five years.

Upon the completion of his trade he continued as a machinist in Montreal for several years. He later became identified with the construction of the Union Pacific out of Chicago, specializing on shop lay out and construction and during that time saw much of the then "wild and woolly west" through Montana and Wyoming. He subsequently became foreman of the St.

Paul round house of the O. B. & G.
Ry. and occupied that position during the trying days of the big "O" strike, which was under direction of the then powerful Knights of Labor. As an evidence of the ability and genius of Mr. Pearce, I am informed that the C. B. & O. was the only line which was able to operate trains out of St.
Paul during the period of the strike.
Mr. Pearce later became general foreman of the N. C. & Ry. at Kansas City, removing thence to one of the southern lines, from which he came to the Norfolk & Western in 1898 as a master mechanic at the instance of President Johnson with whom he had been intimately associated on one of the western lines. His service as master mechanic covered many divisions and he was occupying that important position at the time of his death.

He rendered excellent service to the establishment of the big yards at East Portsmouth, continuing in charge for many years, leaving in 1917 to return to Roanoke and later to Crewe, Va., his last post.

The acquaintance and fellowship I formed with Mr. Pearce shortly after I came to the N. C. & W. continued uninterrupted during the remainder of his life. He was one who did not court the favor of any man but was steadfast in his friendships. His was a charming personality, brilliant in conversation and witty to a degree.
His home life was ideal, he was ever the loving and sympathetic husband and father entering intimately into the affairs of his family. It is said that he had the happy formula of leaving his business cares, which were many,
at his office and returning home un-troubled by them. He was a self-made man, a master workman in his profession, being intimately familiar with the practical as well as the theoretical side of the situation. He was the soul of honor and a man whose word was his bond and he had the utmost confidence for one who told or acted to him. These characteristics were well known to those with whom he was associated and no doubt kept some from attempting misrepresentation.

Mr. Pearce was a constant student of mechanical matters, and kept abreast of the times. He was a great reader and was always well posted and competent to intelligently discuss the questions of the day. He was ever a well informed man, and his opinions upon many matters were eagerly sought for and applied.

Mr. Pearce Was

Of Distinction

He was not a man who carried his heart upon his sleeve, was utterly devoid of ostentation or anything that would bring him into the so-called light, but as previously intimated, his friendships, often casually formed, were enduring. He attracted men with out apparent effort and held them.

He was conscious of and relied wh-ly upon his ability and depended upon merit alone for the success which he achieved. He had the quality of discerning the silver lining with which every cloud is surrounded.

In spite of his untimely passing Mr.
Pearce was a well rounded character —one whom the community and the railroad he served so well and faithfully could ill afford to lose. To know him was to love and admire him.

Brother Elks and friends the loss of Brother Pearce was worthy of imitation.
His relationships were perfect at home and abroad. What he undertook he carried to fulfillment. By reason of his uprightness and honesty he was able to look every man in the face unchallenged and unafraid. In truth we may apply to him in all its fullness the beautiful motto of our order:

"One brother's faults we write upon the sands; their virtues upon the tablets of love and memory." His faults were few his virtues many. That the God of our fathers, whose we are and whom we serve, however imperfectly, may give to his body peaceful rest, and to his spirit happy and triumphant residence in the Heavenly Kingdom, and to his loved ones sustaining grace is our prayer in the name of the Blessed Immanuel."

He was a man of great character and ability, and his loss is a great loss to the Lodge and to the community.

1,700 ARE OUT OF WORK AT IRONTON

IRONTON, O., Dec. 8—Nine industrial concerns, employing approximately 1,700 people, were forced to suspend operations this morning because of the curtailment of the coal supply. The plants affected use electricity for motive power, and notice that their power would be shut off this morning was received last Saturday from the Irionton Electric Company.

That notice was made on instructions from the Fuel Administration and extends to all industries not classed as essential and which are not favored by the government's priority list.

Companies affected by the order are the Belfont Iron Works Company, the Portland Cement Company, the Yellow Poplar Lumber Company, The Dayton Metalware Company, The Standard Stove Company, the Irionton Stove Manufacturing Company, the Faxon Lumber Company and the Goldcamp Milling Company. Several smaller institutions depending on electricity for motive power are seriously handicapped because of the restrictions.

No attempt will be made by the companies to substitute other means of motive power. It is understood, since the officials are hopeful of an early settlement of the coal strike and a return to normal conditions.

Court House

Crowe Will Case

The taking of evidence in the case of Mary E. Crowe against Mary Burns and others which was called for trial in common pleas court at one o'clock today, will not begin until Tuesday morning on account of former Attorney General Timothy S. Hogan, one of the counsel for the plaintiff, being unable to reach the city until tonight. At the session of court this afternoon a jury to try the case was selected and other formalities disposed of in order to pave the way for the introduction of testimony at the opening of court tomorrow morning.

The plaintiff is contesting the will of her uncle, John Crowe, pioneer McCollough farmer, who died in December, 1918, at the age of 70, leaving his estate valued at $25,000 to his sister and brother, Mary Burns and Andrew Crowe, under his will which was executed March 16, 1915. The plaintiff tried to set the will aside on the ground that Crowe was mentally incapacitated at the time.

Asks New Trial

Motion for a new trial was filed today by Attorneys Blair and Blair, counsel for the defendant, in the case of Clifford E. "Jack" Allen, who was convicted by a jury in common pleas court Friday on a charge of grand larceny in connection with the theft of cigarettes from the N. & W. on April 11, 1918. Nine reasons are advanced in the motion why the verdict of the jury should be set aside and the defendant granted a new trial.

Then she took him back a little more than a year ago on his express promise that he would be a dutiful husband and do better she says, but she now declares that he failed to keep his promises and has again abandoned her. She secured an injunction restraining the defendant from disposing of 3 Liberty bonds which he has in his possession.

Mrs. Parker Asks Divorce

A divorce and alimony is sought in a suit filed in Common Pleas court today by Elizabeth Parker through Attorney W. H. Sprague against Hershel Parker, 620 Second street, whom she married at Irionton, on May 3, 1919. She charges cruelty, declaring that Parker has been in the habit of cursing and abusing her and has knowingly accused her falsely of immoral conduct she says.

Members of the election committee and tellers will meet at the Chamber of Commerce, headquarters, Monday night to canvass the votes in the primary election under the direction of the field secretary, O. R. Stone.

Ballots must be cast not later than six o'clock Monday evening to be counted. Members of the Chamber are welcome to witness the count.

In the first election the requirement of the by-laws for a member to pay a portion of his dues before being entitled to vote will not be enforced, as the campaign executive committee does not desire to limit the powers of the members so soon after the campaign. Interest in the selection of 26 names to go before the membership of the primary contest, has become intense, owing to rumors of several combinations in an effort to put over lists of names said to have been agreed upon.

Some questions have been asked about the numbers on official return envelope. The number on the envelope

It was said Monday that slips were being passed around by different groups containing names of men to be voted for. Diligent effort failed to locate more than two sets of names, although it was said there were others in circulation.

Some questions have been asked about the numbers on official return envelope. The number on the envelope is used in mailing the ballots, each member being given a number as the ballot is checked out from the office. If a member calls the office and states that he has not received a ballot, the records will show whether one has been mailed to him, and a new number can be given which cancels the old. There must be some means of identifying whether a returned ballot is official or not. A private envelope would destroy the secrecy of the voting. When the official numbered envelope is returned to the office, the number is checked off and the sealed envelope containing the ballot is deposited in the ballot box. The ballot box will not be opened until the count takes place Monday night.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. For 17 years he used these tablets (a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil) in his private practice with great success.

They do all the good that calomel does but have no bad after effects. No pains, no griping, no injury to the gums or danger from acid foods—yet they stimulate the liver and bowels.

Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." Note how they clear clouded brain and perk up the spirits.

You Just Try NR For That Indigestion

Get your organs of digestion, assimilation and elimination working in harmony and watch your trouble disappear. NR does it or money back.

One Day's Test Proves NR Best

Not stomach only partly digests the food we eat. The process is finished in the intestines where the food is mixed with bile from the liver.

It must be plain to any sensible person who realizes this, that the stomach, liver and bowels must work in harmony for digestion to proceed to be avoided or overcome.

This fact also explains why sufferers from indigestion, also suffer more or less from headaches, biliousness and constipation.

If you are one of the many unfortunate persons who cannot digest their food after meals. If you are constipated, have bilious spells, indigestion, coated tongue, bad breath, variable appetite, are nervous, losing energy and feel your health failing, you should take a trial box of Nature's Remedy (NR) Tablets.

Give it a trial for a week or two.

INJURED IN

AUTO ACCIDENT

Mrs. S. S. Maguet, of 1512 Franklin avenue, suffered a broken left collarbone Sunday afternoon in an automobile accident on the West Side.

The accident happened about three o'clock just this side of Rushmore. There were five passengers in the Ford touring car, in which Mrs. Maguet was riding. The machine was on the right side of the road when another machine came from the rear and tried to pass the Maguet car on the right side. This crowded the Maguet car and it was sent into a ditch at the side of the road, the five passengers being thrown in a heap in the car as the side car tain were on. In the混up Mrs. Maguet suffered the injury to her collar bone. The other car was a Mitchell touring car and contained four young men and two girls. The machine stopped, one young man came back to see if any one was killed or seriously injured, went back to his machine and took the rear license tag off and came into the city without his identity being learned.

The Maguet car was pushed back onto the road and the party came to the city, where Mrs. Maguet's injury was attended. The Maguet machine escaped with a badly damaged top.

Will Blackburn, aged 18, son of W. R. Blackburn of Chaffins Mills, Scioto county and Dewey Maynard, aged 18 son of Richard Maynard of the same place, were held up and robbed of about $40 near the Belfast mill about twelve o'clock last night.

The boys came in from Chaffins Mills on the D. T. & I. Saturday afternoon on their way to Williamson, W. Va., to work in the N. & W. shops and went to the N. & W. depot to take No. 4 late in the evening. While sitting in the depot three respectably dressed young men came in and struck up an acquaintance. They told the boys their train was an hour late and suggested they take a walk to "kill time." Unconscious of danger the two country boys agreed and all walked out to Seaborn and down that street almost to the Storms Creek bridge. Here one of the young men said, "I guess we've gone far enough" and while one of them drew a gun and another a knife the third went through the clothes of the victims and took everything except 10 cents which Maynard had in change.

After the holdup the three highwaymen went out Vermilion street while their victims started to hoot the police. They encountered Willard Mansfield and the police were soon searching for the criminals but up to a late hour last night no trace of them had been found. The youthful victims of the holdup remained at the police station last night to identify any suspects who might be arrested, expecting to go by train this morning to Wheelersburg and from there walk to their homes.

"Knew we'd get together"

—Ches. Field

HERE'S where the particular smoker meets the particular smoke—Chesterfield.

Particular is right! Not only do we use the four choicest varieties of Turkish tobacco—Xanthi, Cavalla, Smyrna and Samos—but to these we add the rich, sun-ripened leaves of specially choice Domestic tobacco.

Fine as these tobaccos are, it's the exclusive process by which they are blended that gives to Chesterfields that satisfying body, that mellow richness which makes a smoke mean something.

Chesterfields certainly do satisfy as no other cigarette has satisfied you before—and to top it off, they are packed in a glassine paper package that preserves for you all of that delicious flavor.

The Man's Store Of Portsmouth

The seven per cent preferred stock of Hydraulic Steel carries valuable conversion rights which should be attractive to business men.

What the "Rights" Mean

Analysis of the new Hydraulic Steel Preferred shows that it is well safeguarded and abundantly secured; the conversion rights carried by each share are an additional reason, beyond its intrinsic worth, why it is recommended as an attractive "business man's investment."

The below table shows just what this conversion feature would be worth at various market prices on the common; and therefore affords a basis for estimate of its value within that price-range. Each share of the new Preferred is convertible into 2 2/9 shares of common during the year beginning April 1st next, and into two shares thereafter.

SALE OF RED CROSS SEALS IS BOOSTED IN LOCAL CHURCHES

In observing yesterday as Anti-tuberculosis Sunday in local churches, physicians made talks in the interest of the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals as the money obtained in this manner swells the fund for the prevention of the spread of the dread white plague—tuberculosis. The speeches in the various churches were made by Dr. P. J. Kline at the First Presbyterian; Dr. G. W. Wenzelton, Central Presbyterian; Dr. L. G. Locke, Second Presbyterian; Dr. Joseph S. Rardin, Biglow church in the morning and First Baptist church in the evening; Dr. J. D. Jordan, Manly church; Dr. C. W. Cheney, New Boston Baptist church; Itzy, E. A. Powell spoke at his church in the Anti-Tuberculosis campaign.

loss in some form or other. The annual ravages of the disease is more than twice the mortality of other contagious and infectious diseases.

In the war 67,000 boys perished in battle; 160,000 die of tuberculosis each year.

This dreadful mortality is preventable and could be helped by attention to better housing, better sanitation, and better food. To bring about an understanding of prevention an educational campaign is carried on as well as sanitation financed from funds obtained through the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals.

Add the work by purchasing the seals to decorate Christmas packages.

Rev. R. C. Meeks spoke at the Y. M. C. A. on the subject.

The gist of the campaign addresses, which were carried out along educational lines, may be summed up as follows:

The great asset of this nation is its health; its great liability is its death rate. American people had their eyes opened during the war and have seen the necessity of taking an inventory of the nation's manpower. According to statistics available in the selective draft examination, out of 3,205,000 men it was found more than 16,000 men could not answer to physical capacity exacting. After further testing out in camps, etc., it was discovered over one fifth of the young men of America, the supposed flower of the country, were unfit.

Two million people in the United States, it is estimated, have tuberculosis.

WHEN EXTREMES MEET

MONSIEUR Georges Carpenter, a French soldier, fresh from the trenches, having instantly and incongruously vanquished that bloomer, Joe Beckett, an English champion, has now signed to meet Jack Dempsey, pure-blooded American, because his folks are all Irish.

That raises to interesting and refreshing reflections: The manly art, so called, is popularly held to hold its base, if not its origin in England, though as a class the Welsh make a better showing in the ring. From England the game spread to this country and the Irish became so numerous and conspicuous in it, that the idea rather fixed itself in the public mind that a prize-fighter had to have some of sweet Erin's red blood in him or he could never amount to much with his fists. As against this there was universal contempt in the circles devoted to the sport that a Frenchman could fight in the ring, and popular opinion was all to the same trend. Carpenter disabuses this estimate by his disposal in jig time of the fellow that disputed with Dempsey the title of world's champion. It is not the first time he has done it either. He was rising rapidly as a shining luminary in the pugilistic firmament when he quit to go to the front for his beloved France.

His battle with Dempsey, to take place about next June, will be an event that will absorb two continents, yes, it might be said three for Australia sits back for no one when it comes to this particular pastime. One swallow does not make a summer, no more does one fighter of class distinguish a nation for its pugilistic product, but how Carpenter acquits himself in combat with the redoubtable Jack Dempsey will go either to make or mar the reputation of France in something some people think isn't real nice. We might as well confess right here that we are a trifle uneasy as to the outcome. Monsieur Georges is better than a bear cat, but we are not going to claim any kin to him because our grandmother was a Carpenter and we don't wish him to win either, because when it comes to fighting we feel all Irish.

In the Labor World the accusation has been made that much of the riot activity against the Negro has been due to the color introduction into industrial operations in the North.

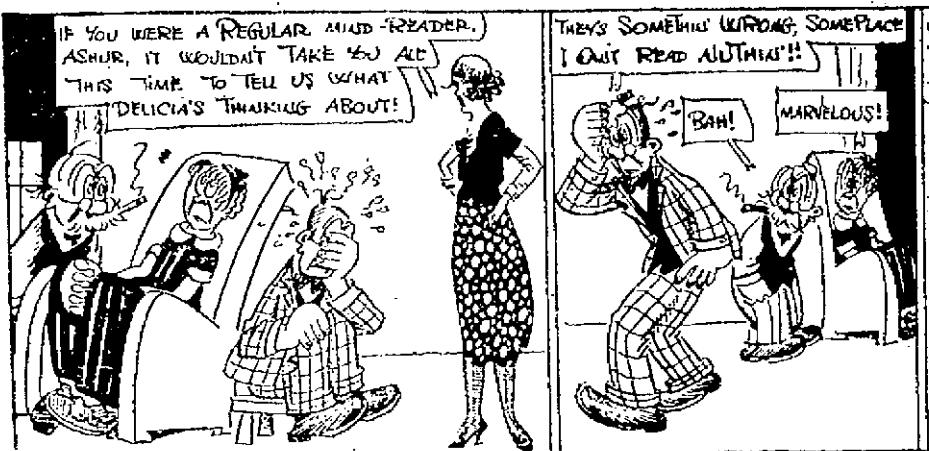

What you do, not spend you may spend another day; what you spend is gone but oftentimes the regret does not go with it.

COL. H. L. GILCHRIST

As chief of the American typhus expedition to Poland, Col. H. L. Gilchrist of the U. S. Army has a big job. Helping him with this work are 500 American soldiers and twenty-two officers loaned by the government.

Colonel Gilchrist was in the first unit of the American expedition to reach Europe, arriving in England with the Lakeside hospital unit from Cleveland, Ohio, in May 1917. Later, he was transferred to the chemical warfare service. At the time the armistice was signed, he had the tremendous job on hand of directing the defensive of the entire American expeditionary force, 87 per cent of which had typhus.

Delousing approximately three million Americans was a big task, but the job ahead of delousing some twenty-five million Poles is infinitely greater. Cooties in France were more or less harmless. In Poland the cootie carries the germ of typhus fever. Without the body louse as a carrier, typhus fever cannot be contracted.

It is reported that Colonel Gilchrist and his men, aided by the Polish government, are now delousing 10,000 Poles daily.

Within The Law
An idea of how strategy will be court is seen from the following incident which occurred in a small Kentucky town.

A young man accused for house-breaking was up for trial. After undergoing a stiff questioning, he was made to understand that his offense carried a heavy punishment. The clever lawyer was, however, equal to the test.

"Your honor," he said, "I submit that my client did not break into the house at all. He found the parlor window open, inserted his right arm and removed a few trifling articles of minor value. Now my client's arm is not himself, and I fail to see how you can punish him for an offense committed only by one of his limbs."

"That argument," said the judge, "is very well put. Following it logically, I sentence the defendant's arm to one year's imprisonment. He can accompany it or not, just as he chooses."

For a fleeting moment, this decision caused a brief lull within the court room. But it soon changed to a seething storm when the prisoner calmly unscrewed his cork arm and leaving it in the dock, walked out.

ALLIES MODIFY PROTOCOL

Objectionable Features Are Stricken Out

PARIS, Dec. 8.—The allies have consented to modify some of the terms of the protocol putting the peace treaty into effect to which Germany has made objection. The clause providing for indemnity for the destruction of the German fleet at Scapa Flow has been modified so as to refer to The Hague tribunal the question whether the delivery of the tonnage demanded will cripple Germany. It is understood. The understanding also is that the other features of the protocol most objectionable to the Germans have been eliminated. It is expected that the German plenipotentiaries will sign the protocol, without much further delay. The final paragraph in the protocol providing that even after the peace treaty has gone into effect, the allies might use military measures of coercion to ensure the execution of the treaty's terms, has been eliminated entirely, as also has the clause relating to the evacuation of the Baltic provinces by German troops.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—Gustave Noske, German minister of defense, declines to will recommend that the German government refuse to sign the protocol to the peace treaty, no matter what the consequences may be, according to the Berlin correspondent of the Daily Mail.

Noske was careful to say he was giving his personal views, but it is said he is in agreement with intentions ascribed to other members of the German cabinet.

He charged that Great Britain and France were "deliberately planning the destruction of Germany," and that their governments "by deceit and trickery" were moulding public opinion in their countries preparatory to "scuppering Germany beyond the crushing effects of the first treaty." He said he had "lost all confidence in the judges of the allies."

Demands for dock and harbor material in reparation for the sinking of the interned German fleet at Scapa Flow and the provision of the protocol empowering the allies to enforce the terms of the peace treaty were assented to by the German minister as the

PALMER CONFIDENT END OF COAL STRIKE NEAR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Hope for the settlement tomorrow afternoon of the controversy between the miners, the operators and the government, was expected in a formal statement issued today at the White House.

The statement follows:

"It is hoped that there will be a settlement on Tuesday afternoon of the controversy between the miners, the operators and the government through the acceptance by the miners of the plan for a definite settlement proposed by the president, which proposal was submitted to Acting President Lewis of the miners, by Attorney General Palmer Saturday night."

The utmost secrecy still surrounded the president's proposal and Secretary Tumulty and other officials refused to supplement the White House statement. It was learned, however, that the proposal made to the miners came from the president himself and was in the form of a memorandum written by him.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 8.—Speculation as to the method for settling the strike, which was proposed personally by President Wilson, was rendered difficult because while Fuel Administrator Garfield reiterated there would be no increase in the price of coal to the public and said he had not been made public either by the miners or by officials, but comfort was taken, judged one inch from his position, in the statement by Attorney General Palmer that night that he was quite prepared to meet the miners' demands.

The statement was made by Mr. Garfield just before he boarded a train for Indianapolis, where late today he will confer with Judge Anderson, of the federal district court, relative to the injunction proceedings involving mine union officials.

Success or failure of the president's plan will not be determined until Tuesday, when the court and strike leaders will consider it.

DELAY CONVENING OF FEDERAL JURY

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Dec. 8.—The federal grand jury, summoned by United States District Judge A. B. Anderson to investigate alleged violations of the Lever act and antitrust laws by operators, miners and coal dealers in connection with the bituminous coal strike, will not be empanelled today.

United States District Attorney L. E. Stack announced today. He said this step had been postponed until 10 o'clock tomorrow.

While announcing that the convening of the grand jury had been postponed until tomorrow, Mr. Stack would not say that the jury would be empanelled at that time. It was indicated that the calling together of the investigators would depend upon conferences today with Attorney General Palmer and others, who were to arrive here from Washington about noon.

TIGERS WILL NOT TRAIN ON THE COAST

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 8.—The Detroit club of the American league will do its spring training at Macon, Ga., again this coming year. It is announced by President Frank J. Lewis.

There had been reports to the effect that the Tigers might be taken to the Pacific coast, but President Lewis has definitely denied these, declaring that although major league clubs have drawn well on the coast, the financial income on the return trip is likely to prove uncertain because of weather conditions.

Furthermore, President Lewis has invited to tour with the champion Cincinnati Nationals next spring.

Hewitt—Times have changed.
Beckett—Yes, it is a long way from grandfather's clock to a wrist watch.

NOW SPEAKING OF FLIERS IN FISTIC CIRCLES WE REFER TO JOE BECKETT

The result of the Beckett-Carpentier international glove contest in London was no great surprise to the sporting fraternity, as Beckett was regarded as one of the poorest excuses that ever held the championship of England. That he lasted only one round against a clever man like Carpenter was also to be expected. It took Beckett 17 rounds to knock out Eddie McGoorty, the American middleweight, after Ed was all in and had practically retired from the boxing game.

Carpentier is the most beloved boxer that ever represented France in the prize ring. He won several medals during the five years he was in the ring and also lost thousands of dollars worth of personal property and money when the Germans took away from him what they were stealing everything they could lay their hands on in France.

Carpentier is a well-developed young man and is very temperamental, like James J. Corbett and Ed McCay. He is as quick as a flash and has a knockout in either hand. Carpenter's knockout of Beckett was one of the quickest on record—one minute and fourteen seconds. In fact it is the shortest on record in the English prize ring.

A majority of the American sports passed up Beckett when he refused to face Fred Fulton in the ring. Beckett is a slow thinker, and equally slow in delivering his punches. About the only thing that could be said in his favor was that he was strong as an ox and could strike a hard blow.

Some Distance. Hewitt—Times have changed. Beckett—Yes, it is a long way from grandfather's clock to a wrist watch.

WANT CHIC AND PALS TO SPEND MONTH WITH THE COWBOYS

Captain "Chic" Harley at Ohio State University has been the receiver of many congratulatory letters ever since the Illinois game on his great work at Ohio State. He received one Saturday which appealed to the modest Buckeye star just a little more than the others.

It came all the way from Sheridan, Wyoming, and the writer asked "Chic" to allow him to show his appreciation which ran like this—that during the next summer "Chic" should be doing "Dr. Will and the whole darn football team" out there to Wyoming and spend a month's vacation on the plains as the guests of several cowboys in that vicinity who have been following Scarlet and Gray football matters ever since "Chic" beat Illinois in 1916. "We have some fine horses here, good hunting and fishing, and these cowboys are real fellows," was one sentence. "Sure would be great," mused "Chic" after pondering a few moments.

IS FOOTBALL PROFITABLE? READ THIS

IOWA CITY, IOWA, Dec. 8.—Financially successful to an extraordinary degree was the Iowa University season of 1918. The annual meeting of the board, to be held soon, probably will show nearly $200,000 profits, to be now and Nebraska. It is possible that season's average will be $5,000 a game applied on a long-time debt, caused by deficits in other branches of athletic activity. The Hawks received the most from Ames ($7,500), while Chicago was second, paying $5,000. Averages were lowered by Illinois, Northwestern, and the St. Louis Browns, after him.

Washington, Dec. 8.—Incomparably stronger and more efficient than ever before, the American navy emerged from the world war "second only to that of Great Britain and far in advance of any other foreign navy in ships, in men, and every element of strength," Secretary Daniels declared today in his annual report.

With eighteen capital ships—twelve super-dreadnaughts and six giant battle cruisers—under construction, all representing the last word in naval construction, and several superior to any fighting vessels now in commission, the navy is "pressing forward to greater things," Mr. Daniels said.

Recommendations by the secretary for the betterment of the service included:

Extension of the course at the Naval Academy to five years so the midshipmen may spend one year afloat as enlisted men.

Immediate enlargement of the naval establishment on the Pacific coast to take care of the new Pacific fleet.

Temporary increases in pay of officers and enlisted men and increases in amounts allowed for commutation of quarters and other allowances.

Government control of wireless communication.

Expansion of the naval air service and continuation of the present policy of a separate air service for the navy. Construction of new buildings, including a new Memorial chapel at the Naval Academy.

Increasingly Dangerous Radical Activities Source Of Worry To Justice Dept.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The Department of Justice is confronted with "increasingly dangerous radical activities," Attorney General Palmer said in his annual report submitted today to Congress.

Mr. Palmer did NOT go into details as to "red" activities in general, but said that of the total of 357,295 index record cards, 71,000 Peattie records and 222,712 finger print records now in the department, some 60,000 represented data concerning "reds" and their work. He mentioned that the department had increased steadily its confidential sources of investigation, adding that this meant better facilities for running down persons whose lives bore marks of crime.

Mr. Palmer said that while other government agencies during the past year were rounding out their forces incident to the war, his Department found itself only half way through a series of investigations and litigation questions. Countless hundreds of claims growing out of the war have been made against the government, he said, and must be fought through the courts. Cases in which the government seeks to recover funds paid out through error or fraud provide another source of supply for litigation. Alleged infringement of patent rights by the government in its manufacture of war materials as well as similar claims arising from private manufacture of war supplies on the post-war arrangements, also puts litigation on the shoulders of the department's staff.

The department's policy of regarding prosecution of trusts has referred to activity other investigations and crime preventive machinery, the Attorney General said.

In addition to these, Mr. Palmer said the department will be hardened for months to come with the prosecution of violators of the Sedition and Selective Service Acts. Under the latter the number of cases runs high, he said. He pointed out that in gathering all necessary data through the aid of local draft boards which have been assembled in Washington and prosecution of the cases will proceed immediately upon completion of the trials.

Investigations and trial arguments during the year have shown loopholes in many statutes, Mr. Palmer said. He called attention to the fact that under existing law, it is not a crime to send threatening letters through the mails to defraud or as a means of extorting money out of the letters themselves. The best non-conductors, ending with the most perfect insulation, are India rubber, gutta-percha, dry air and gases, wool, cotton, silk, glass, wax, sulphur, resin and paraffin.

Mr. Palmer said also there was great need for a statute providing punishment for an individual attempting to defend the United States. Present statutes, he said, provide punishment in the event that two or more persons conspire to defend the gov-

Advice Old but Still Good.

Cato recommended that the soil of a farm be well and fertile; also that near it there be plenty of laborers and that it be not far from a large town, moreover that it have sufficient means of transporting its produce, either by water or land. This advice, although 2,293 years old, still holds good.

The best conductors of lightning placed in the order of conductivity, are metals, gas coke, graphite, solutions of salts, acids and water. The best non-conductors, ending with the most perfect insulation, are India rubber, gutta-percha, dry air and gases, wool, cotton, silk, glass, wax, sulphur, resin and paraffin.

PENNY ANTE

American Navy Second Only To Great Britain And Pressing Forward

Change of the names of the Bureau of Navigation and Steam Engineering to Personnel and Engineering Bureau, respectively.

The actual cost of the navy to the nation during the war was placed by the secretary at $2,082,000,000. During the next fiscal year, he said, the navy's needs will be approximately $553,131,251, or approximately $40,000,000 less than the sum asked for during the present fiscal year.

Commenting on the construction records during the war, the secretary said that during the twelve months ended last October 1, 159 vessels of all classes were completed for the navy. These included 103 destroyers, 1 battleship, 32 submarines and 62 cargo boats. A world record for destroyer construction was made, in the building of the Reid at Squantum, Mass., in 45 working days.

The navy has been demobilized from a war-time strength of more than 500,000 officers and men to 352,000 of whom 5,000 are reserves, the report said, and enlisted men are badly needed to man the greatly increased going establishment.

Splendid results have been accomplished by naval administration in the Virgin Islands, Haiti, San Domingo, Samoa, and Guam. Secretary Daniels declared, particularly along sanitary lines, and in the quelling of banditry and lawlessness and the improvement of financial conditions.

Major Leagues Want Longer Schedules

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Next week at the Waldorf-Astoria on Tuesday, the American League meeting will be a busy one for the magnates of the major leagues.

The annual winter meetings of both the big leagues are scheduled to convene this week. The time and place of the meeting will depend on a decision in the injunction suit now pending. The decision may be handed down today.

President John Heyder and his National League owners will get together.

The annual pow-wow of the National League will be altogether peaceful and confined to routine business. President Heyder said today that nothing out of the ordinary is on his slate.

That of the National League will go on record for a return to the 154-game schedule next season is a certainty.

The 10-game season of 1919 was considered altogether too short. The American Leagues, when they get around to it, will also adopt the long schedule.

They are singing a new song up at Ohio State.

It is entitled, "It Is a Devil of a Long Time To Wait Twelve Months To Average Eight Measly Seconds."

The Women of Korea.

In Korea women occupy a place in society which has no parallel elsewhere in the Orient. They are both better and worse off than in China or India or Japan—better off because there are more fields open to them, worse because they are overworked, often ill-treated, and until recently were actually enslaved.

Persian Cookery.

Cookery among the well-to-do classes in Persia is extravagant—partly because they are lavishly hospitable, partly because all house servants are fed from the leavings of the master's table. Tiny chickens, quails, pheasants, doves and young partridges are lambed hot, on the spit, to each guest.

Give Little Folks Allowance.

Instead of giving the little folk money in haphazard fashion and when they tease for it, let them have a stated sum each week, and then make up their keeping an account of what is done with every penny of it—Cat Marshall in the Thrift Magazine.

Powerful Dam.

By raising eight and a half feet the dam which impounds water for Suez Bay its capacity was increased 10,000,000 gallons.

Mad Was the Right.

A mother of my acquaintance suggested to her five-year-old daughter that she pray for a baby sister or brother. Time passed and the five-year-old was rewarded for her prayer.

When the question of a name arose, the little miss demanded the right to name the baby, saying: "My name that baby; I did the praying."

Colling record.

It is estimated that the yield will exceed that of 1918 by 1,000,000 bushels and will be the nation's second record wheat crop. The estimated crop of 2,910,000,000 bushels will be 10,000,000 greater than that of 1918.

The Nation can further expand its output of commodities by cultivating unused tillable land, estimated at more than 40 per cent of the total, the report said.

Expansion is limited, however, by the supply of capital and labor.

No step to promote farmers' cooperative associations along the right lines should be omitted, the Senate report said. It is estimated that these organizations market annually approximately $15,000,000 worth of commodities.

Induced in Mr. Houston's recent report, the American Farmers' Cooperative Association, which is to be organized in 1920, is to be a national organization of 200,000 units, each unit to be a local association.

The present negotiations were the following:

1. The American Farmers' Cooperative Association is to be organized in 1920, the State fair of a system of personal credit unions for farmers whose financial status and operations make it difficult for them to secure accommodations.

WHEN EXTREMES MEET

MONSIEUR Georges Carpentier, a French foilie, fresh from the trenches, having instantly and inconveniently vanquished that bloomer, Joe Beckett, an English champion, has now signed to meet Jack Dempsey, pure-blooded American, because his folks are all Irish.

That raises to interesting and refreshing reflections. The early art, so called, is popularly held to hold its base, if not its origin in England, though, as a class, the Welsh make a better showing in the ring. From England the game spread to this country and the Irish became so numerous and conspicuous in it, that it has rather fixed itself in the public mind that a prize-fighter must have some of sweet Erin's red blood in him or he could never amount to much with his fists. As against this there was universal contempt in the circles devoted to the sport that a Frenchman could fight in the ring and popular opinion was all to the same trend. Carpentier disabuses this estimate by his disposal in the ring of the fellow that disputed with Dempsey the title of world's champion. It is not the first time he has done it either. He was rising rapidly as a shining luminary in the pugilistic firmament when he quit to go to the front for his beloved France.

His battle with Dempsey, to take place about next June, will be an event that will absorb two continents, yes, it might be said, for Australia sits back for no one when it comes to this particular pastime. One swallow does not make a summer, no more does one fighter of class distinguish a nation for its pugilistic prowess, but how Carpentier acquires himself in combat with the resolute Jack Dempsey will go either to make or mar the reputation of France in something some people think isn't real nice. We might as well confess right here that we are a trifle uneasy as to the outcome. Monsieur Georges is better than a bear eat, but we are not going to claim any kin to him because our grandmother was a Carpentier and we don't wish him to win either, because when it comes to fighting we feel all Irish.

In the Labor World the accusation has been made that much of the riot activity against the Negro has been due to the color in migration into industrial operations in the North.

What you do not spend, you may spend another day; what you spend is gone but oftentimes the regret does not go with it.

SPEAKING OF TROUBLE

By Probationer

SHE MARRIED AN AVERAGE MAN

BY ZOE BECKLEY

Last night was one long joy of solid dreariness—sleep—the first I have known for weeks, just before I put out my light I read Eric's letter again. It is curious how nearly a living thing a letter is. It bears the personality of its writer almost as vividly as the human form, certainly more vividly than a photograph. Yes—I reread Eric's letter twice. Then suddenly in a flush of understanding my vague impression took form. I knew what Athena meant by "Eric's weakest link." It is his aimlessness, this un-Americanism.

When an American goes abroad it is this very quality that enchantsthe un-Americanities of people and places. He thinks just as I thought when I was on my vacation trip to England, "Oh, how heavenly it all is—these sweet, quaint villages, where nobody worries or worries and where they take time to live!"

If the traveler is a woman, and some sort of continental adventure glorifies her journey, she throws herself into it with the abandon of the primitive feminine. A glamour is over all. A delicious, subtle sense of life and liberty. She does things she wouldn't do at home. She lives in a golden dream wherein the most commonplace act is transformed into romance.

She and the man go sailing, go walking, go swimming, go motorcycling. A picnic in the woods is a feast spread in Eden. A boat with painted sails stained reddish brown has the edge of the world for its destination. A tramp in the forest ofFantasia is an excursion to fairyland. The man himself, in his knickerbockers and rough boots, becomes Prince Charming, and she a happy ruling queen.

The world becomes suddenly crowded with wonderful things to do, mysteries to explore, thrills to experience—dreadless sleep—the first I have— and to Mrs. Grumpy, with her laundry to chaff the bubbling spirits.

This was drifting through my mind when I fell asleep. And when I opened my eyes this morning I took my thread again and was trying to follow it to a conclusion when Athena came rustling in with a handful of mail?

There was a letter from Jim which made me suddenly think of bread and butter and cold spring water contrasted with cakes and sweet champagne!

And there was a note from Editor Lynch saying that three more of my "clippings" had been printed and that a little story I wrote weeks ago would come out in the next number of the "Messenger."

I am too happy to keep still. I dragged Athena out for a five-mile walk and with part of my first story check we had luncheon at the swellest hotel here! I am in one of my sky-sounding moods. It's partly that I'm rested, partly the sparkling, cold, sweet ocean air. But it's mostly the triumphant ebullition that my brain and my heart are singing. "We're succeeding, we're arriving; our work is going fine!"

"Does journalism pay well?" I asked Athena.

"If you're thinking of Eric Sands," she answered, "I should say it does not. But divide a bit care he. If you're thinking of yourself I prophesy you can make it pay and pay well."

Whether she meant it or not Athena put her finger on the "weak link"—Eric's don't-care ness.

But when did a woman ever love a man less because of one little weak link in his character?

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—A pose from the stupid, wide-eyed victim of the diary of model Sonja Pepe; the dark adulterers dragging Up brothers and we have a new junior.

A most engaging fellow of the set, who talks of ungentle things, shouting at tobacco the while. To Clermont Falls, the Manhattan crop of millionaire reporters. Young Cornelius Vanderbilt, son of the Horatio's staff, Mr.

position to Poland. Col. H. L. Gilchrist

of the U. S. Army has a big job. Help him with this work are 500 Amer ican soldiers and twenty-two officers led by the government.

Colonel Gilchrist was in the first unit of the Amer ican expeditionary force to reach Eu rope, arriving in England with the Lakewood hospital

unit from Cleveland, Ohio, in May 1917. Later he was transferred to the chemical warfare service. At the time the armistice was signed, he had the tremendous job

of directing the delousing

of the entire Amer ican expeditionary force 97 per cent of which had typhus.

Delousing approximately three mil lion Americans was a big task, but the job ahead of delousing some twenty-five million Poles is infinitely greater.

Villages in France were more or less harmless. In Poland the cooks carried the germs of typhus fever. Without the body house as a carrier, typhus fever could not be contracted.

It is reported that Colonel Gilchrist and his men, aided by the Polish government, are now delousing 10,000

Poles daily.

Within The Law

An idea of how strategy wins in court is seen from the following incipient which occurred in a small Kentucky town.

A young man accused for housebreaking was up for trial. After undergoing a stiff questioning, he was made to understand that his offense carried a heavy punishment. His elder lawyer was, however, equal to the test.

"Your honor," he said, "I submit that my client did not break into the house at all. He found the parlor window open, inserted his right arm and removed a few telling articles of minor value. Now my client is not a thief, and I fail to see how you can punish him for an offense committed only by one of his hands."

"That argument," said the judge, "is very well put. Following it logically,

I sentence the defendant to a year in prison.

And never be known to whine,

For that is a "Regular Fellow's" style,

And I want to make it none!

Oh, give me a Regular Chance in life.

The same as the rest, I pray.

And give me a Regular Girl for wife,

To help me along the way;

Let me know the lot of humanity.

Its Regular woes and joys,

And raise a Regular family.

Or Regular girls and boys!

Let me live in a Regular good old age,

With Regular snow-white hair,

Having done my labor and earned my wage.

And played my game for fair;

And so at last when the people seen

My face on its peaceful bier,

They'll say, "Well, he was a Regular man."

And drop a Regular tear!

Some Folks Just Won't Be Satisfied

"Well," said the optimist. "I'm sorry the president got sick here, but at that, Wiehita got more advertising throughout the country by then she would have done had he given his address as scheduled."

"Maybe so," snarled the pessimist,

"but it didn't advertise Wiehita much

Much Interest Being Taken In C. of C. Election Tonight

MEN'S BIBLE CLASSES WILL MEET

Members of the election committee and tellers will meet at the Chamber of Commerce headquarters Monday night to canvass the votes in the primary election under the direction of the field secretary, O. P. Stone.

Ballots must be cast not later than six o'clock Monday evening to be counted. Members of the Chamber are welcome to witness the count.

In the first election the requirement of the by-laws for a member to pay a portion of his dues before being entitled to vote will not be enforced, as the campaign executive committee does not desire to limit the powers of the members so soon after the campaign.

Interest in the selection of 28 names to go before the membership of the final contest, has become intense, owing to rumors of several combinations in an effort to put over lists of names said to have been agreed upon.

It was said Monday that they were being passed around by different groups containing names of men to be voted for. Different effort failed to locate more than two sets of names, although it was said their were others in circulation.

Some questions have been asked about the numbers on official return envelope. The number on the envelope is used in mailing the ballots, each member being given a number as the ballot is checked out from the office. If a member calls the office and states that he has not received a ballot, the records will show whether one has been mailed to him, and a new number can be given which cancels the old. There must be some means of identifying whether a returned ballot is official or not. A private envelope would destroy the secrecy of the voting. When the official numbered envelope is returned to the office, the number is checked off and the sealed envelope containing the ballot is deposited in the ballot box. The ballot box will not be opened until the count takes place Monday night.
